WILSON QUILTS AS MOBILIZATION CHIEF

2 Killed, 9 Hurt In Heavy Weekend Traffic

Democrats Ask: Who Now?

Whole Host Of Candidates Eyed To Lead Party

Observers Disagree Whether President Can Name Successor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman's unequivocal "I shall not accept renomination" today had politicians feverishly trying to figure out the possible 1952 beneficiary or beneficiaries of those 24 million votes Truman polled to confound the experts in 1948.

Some thought they had it all doped out. Others just had hopes. Both groups had axes to grind for favorite sons. Neutral observers who witnessed the historic pronouncement of Saturday night preffered to wait and see what happens at the nominating conventions in Chicago this July.

Possible Tickets
Dangled before the curious were such possible Democratic tickets as these:

Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois for President and Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia for vice president; and vice versa.

Vice President Alben W. Barkley for president and take your pick for second place.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee for president or vice president; the same for Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma.

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn of Texas for president and a northerner for vice president.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas for president and take your choice for vice president.

Will Truman try to name a successor?

Sen. Russell and Richard J. Nelson, aide to Gov. Stevenson said "no" on a television program yesterday.

Will Take Interest
Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) said Truman will not try to dictate a successor, but will take "a real interest in the selection". Humphrey was one of several who predicted a wide-open convention in July.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) predicted Truman will interest himself to the extent of "making sure that his policies are carried on."

Would Gov. Stevenson, the man most often mentioned as Truman's choice to succeed him, accept?

Stevenson himself hedged on the "Meet the Press" television program. He still insisted he was running for governor of Illinois, but would not say he would refuse the Democratic presidential nomination.

Will Truman's decision help or hurt Republican prospects of victory in November?

Harold E. Stassen, a candidate for the GOP nomination, said the Democrats would be more difficult to beat without Truman as their candidate.

Taft Implies Draft
Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, another GOP nominee candidate, said anyone the Democrats pick will be "weaker than Truman himself." He added they may have to turn back to Truman, implying a draft. Taft earlier had said he would rather run against Truman than anyone else.

Truman said the same of Taft.

What will Truman do after leaving the White House?

Some believe he may run for the Senate. He still has until April 29 to announce for his old Senate seat from Missouri.

Lausche For President, Mahoning Dems Urge

YOUNGSTOWN (AP) — Mahoning County Democratic leaders today announced they will ask Gov. Frank J. Lausche to be a candidate for the presidency.

Surprised by President Truman's announcement, County Chairman Jack Sullivan immediately called a meeting of party-endorsed candidates and passed a resolution calling upon Lausche to get into the race. Local delegates and alternate candidates, backed by the party organization, are pledged to former U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley whom they regarded as a stalking horse for Truman.

General Dies In Plane Crash

2 Killed, 3 Hurt In B-25 Bomber Mishap

OMAHA (AP) — The deputy director of operations for fighters at Strategic Air Command and one of his assistants were killed today in the crash of a B-25 bomber attempting to land at Offutt Air Force Base. Three others were injured.

Lt. Wayne Bradley, public information officer, said Brig. Gen. Jesse D. Auton of DeMossville, Ky., deputy director of operations for fighters; and Lt. Col. Edwin R. Bush, Burbank, Calif., who worked for Gen. Auton in the operations office, were killed in the crash.

Gen. Auton entered service in 1928, served in England during World War Two, and also participated in the Berlin airlift. He had held his recent assignment since April, 1950. He also saw duty in Korea where he was awarded the Legion of Merit.

The crash occurred shortly before 1 a. m. (EST).

A Strategic Air Command spokesman said the plane, based at Offutt, was coming in for a landing at the end of a routine flight to Burbank, Calif. Apparently one engine was out.

The plane overshot the field, tried to pull up and crashed about three miles northwest of the base, the spokesman said. The wreckage was strewn over a 300 square yard area.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Whitted, who farm nearby, said they heard the sound of the engines end suddenly, looked out and saw a slight flicker of flame.

9 Reported Missing After B-29 Crash

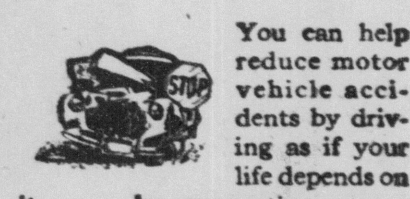

TOKYO (AP)—A B-29 Superfortress, headed for Korea with a full load of bombs, crashed and burned 30 miles west of here shortly before midnight, the Air Force announced today.

Japanese press reports said two members of the crew are known to have parachuted, but nine others are missing. It was not known whether they bailed out or went down with the plane.

Both men who parachuted were injured, one seriously, Kyodo News Agency said.

The bombardier jettisoned 32 bombs before the plane hit the ground and all landed without exploding, the News agency said.

Primaries Show Quick Reaction To Truman Move

Nebraska, Wisconsin Campaigns End With Voting Tomorrow

(By The Associated Press)

The impact of President Truman's withdrawal was felt immediately in Nebraska and Wisconsin, states which hold presidential primaries tomorrow.

In Nebraska, it reduced the Kerr-Kefauver battle to a clear-cut test of popularity. Kerr, pledged to Truman, became a free agent when the President stepped aside. Twelve delegate posts are at stake.

In Wisconsin, Kefauver appeared to be virtually a winner-by-default. Two delegate slates representing Truman were left stranded and Kefauver seemed practically assured of the 28 presidential nominating votes.

Republican maneuvering, more or less overshadowed by the flurry of Democratic activity, were nevertheless continuing in Nebraska and Wisconsin.

In Wisconsin, Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio told newsmen he expects to get at least 20 of the state's 30 GOP nominating votes. He added: "If I carry Wisconsin, I win."

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower is not entered in Wisconsin, which does not count write-ins. However, former Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota has promised to split with Eisenhower whatever number of Wisconsin delegates he wins. The other Republican entry, Gov. Earl Warren of California, was beaming his appeal to Democrats, who can cross over at the polls, as well as to Eisenhower backers.

Stassen was the only major candidate seeking Nebraska's 18 Republican votes. He flew into Omaha last night to make a radio appeal for support. Then returned to Wisconsin. His campaign has been overshadowed by write-in drives for Taft and Eisenhower.

The Progressive Party in a Chicago meeting yesterday, nominating Vincent Hallinan of San Francisco as its presidential candidate and Mrs. Charlotte Bass of New York as vice-presidential candidate.

2 Men Burned At National Sanitary

Two National Sanitary Co. maintenance men were admitted to the Central Clinic at 9:30 this morning after suffering flash burns about the face from a transformer on which they were working.

Hospitalized were Perry Hilliard, 26, of 1505 N. Ellsworth Ave., lead man on the crew, and Charles Duriga, 36, of RD 1, Salem crew foreman. Hilliard received first and second degree burns of the face and around the eyes, while facial burns suffered by Duriga were not considered serious.

Salem High Musicians Win Top Honors In Canton Event

Fourteen superior ratings and ten excellent ratings were awarded to 24 Salem High School musicians Saturday at Canton McKinley High School where they competed in the Eighth District Vocal and Instrumental Solo-Ensemble contest.

More than 1,000 students, representing 42 Northeastern Ohio schools, participated in the contest. The event, sponsored by the Ohio Music Education Association, awarded 219 superior ratings, all of which are eligible for competition in the finals to be held at Lancaster April 19.

The Salem group, which made a fine showing, was accompanied to the contest by Chorus Director Thomas E. Crothers and Orchestra Director Richard Howenstine.

Cut Sought In Living Allowance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate was asked today to slash "push living allowances" for overseas military officers.

Up for expected passage is a bill that would grant a "cost-of-living" increase to all 3,600,000 persons in the armed services.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, told a reporter the bill would "be approved by a substantial majority."

Debate was limited and voting on the measure and all amendments was expected before the day ends.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) asked record votes on a number of amendments, including one to cut in half the present overseas allowances for officers, as well as military, naval and air attaches.

"Most of this stuff is a fantastic waste of money," Douglas said. "and the high living of occupation troops and officers in Germany and Japan creates hatred as well as waste."

Because of special allowances of from $2,000 to $3,500 a year, Douglas said, some overseas officers now get more pay than leaders of the foreign nations where they serve, creating resentment.

Douglas said he also would push for rollcall votes on his proposals to reduce special hazard pay for officers and men in the flying or submarine services to $30 a month.

Wouldn't Appoint Morris Again, McGrath Tells House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General J. Howard McGrath said today he wouldn't appoint Newbold Morris, government corruption cleanup man, as a special assistant if he had to do it over again.

Testifying before a House Judiciary Subcommittee, McGrath also said he has not filled out the financial questionnaire sent him by Morris and does not know whether he will do so.

Morris, as his first step in a "clean up" of the government, has sent several thousand top officials a questionnaire asking for detailed information on their outside income and net financial worth.

Morris, a prominent New York lawyer and a Republican, was appointed to the job by President Truman but technically is a special assistant to the attorney general.

McGrath was in the witness chair of the House group which is investigating the way he has run the Justice Department.

Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.), who fired the questions about Morris at the attorney general, told McGrath he understood Morris' deadline for answering the questionnaires is April 7.

He asked whether McGrath had filled out his yet.

"No, sir," the attorney general replied.

Keating: "You intend to, of course."

McGrath: "I am not sure whether I will or not."

"I haven't decided either whether I'll fill it out or whether I will advise anybody else in the government to do so."

Beloit Man Dies In Crash At Intersection

Alliance Woman Other Victim; Five Hurt As Bus Upsets

Typical spring weather lured hundreds of district motorists onto the highways over the weekend — two to their deaths and nine others to hospital beds.

Wilmer J. McGaffie, 78, of Beloit was killed at 12:08 p. m. Sunday at the intersection of Routes 62 and 173 at Westville when the car he was driving was struck by a truck-trailer driven by Bill Hansen, 27, of Hanover, Pa.

McGaffie, a retired farmer, was pronounced dead on arrival at the Central Clinic. He had sustained a skull fracture and a crushed chest.

Turns In Front Of Truck

State Highway Patrolmen said that McGaffie, driving east on Route 62 after attending church, attempted to make a left turn onto Route 173 in front of the approaching truck-trailer. McGaffie's car was demolished and, the front end of the truck was damaged considerably.

The other fatal mishap occurred earlier in the day when a car driven by Mrs. Lillie B. Hinchliffe, 54, of 204 S. Seneca St., Alliance, smashed into a utility pole on Gambrinus Rd., a mile south of Canton.

Stark county sheriff's deputies reported that Mrs. Hinchliffe was pinned in the wreckage. A passing motorist, Glen Schroeder of Brewster, pulled her free. She was dead upon arrival at Aultman Hospital in Canton.

Five persons were injured, one seriously, when the Pennsylvania Greyhound bus operated by Kenneth Baughman, 32, of East Liverpool dropped off the berm at 5 a. m. Sunday on Route 224 between Deerfield and Berlin Center and turned over on its side.

Injured were Jack R. Vaughn, 25, of South Bend, Ind., lacerations of the legs; Elmer C. Stockwell, 26, of Pontiac, Mich., lacerations and abrasions of the shoulders and left side; Howell Luttrell, 28, of South Bend, Ind., sprained neck, contusions of the left knee and concussion; E. Browning, 40, of South Bend, Ind., lacerations of the knees and nose and E. W. Bemis, 36, of Miskawaka, Ind., lacerations of the right leg and right shoulder.

The patients were brought to the Central Clinic where Luttrell is reported in fairly good condition today. The others were treated and released.

A chain reaction mishap involving three cars and a truck.

Green Phantom Fails To Show After Calls

The Green Phantom failed to live up to predictions to haunt Routes 14 and 45 Saturday night.

The Columbiana County sheriff's office and an East Palestine telephone operator both received calls from the specter. He told the sheriff's office: "Bet you can't catch me on Route 45." And to the operator forecast: "I'll be on Route 14 tonight."

No word of his appearance on either route was received. Nothing was heard from him Sunday.

The skeleton-costumed night rider, who uses green glee, eerie sirens and a green luminous painted car to frighten motorists at night, was first seen March 12 in this district on Route 7, near Steubenville, after his escapees on Route 40 in the southern part of Ohio.

He returned to the area last Thursday morning to send chills up drivers' spines on Routes 30, 45 and 7 and other area roads. One person has been injured by his antics by being forced off the road.

Differs With Truman On Steel Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles E. Wilson has quit as the nation's mobilization chief. He told President Truman he decided to resign because he doesn't believe in the administration's plan for settling the steel dispute.

Wilson's resignation is effective today. Truman appointed John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, as temporary Director of Mobilization and instructed him to do what he can to reach a settlement between the CIO's United Steelworkers and the steel industry.

The sudden resignation of Wilson, who once headed the General Electric Co., dimmed hopes of averting the steel strike and left the future of controls over wages and prices pretty much in doubt.

Both industry and union representatives appeared gloomy as they prepared to resume negotiations today in New York in an effort to head off a steel strike April 8.

C.I.O. Companies to Meet
Philip Murray, president of the CIO United Steelworkers of America, heads a union committee that is scheduled to meet with officials of six major steel producers at 2 p. m., EST.

Statements issued by both sides on the eve of the session made it plain that no formula for agreement was in sight.

The future of wage-price control itself clouded overnight.

Sen. Maybank (D-S.C.) broke off hearings of his Senate Banking Committee on the extension of the Defense Production Act, which expires June 30, "until the air has cleared."

Maybank praised "Wilson as a great American." The committee, he said, definitely will want to know who will administer controls as Wilson's successor.

Termed Not Unreasonable
The President, in accepting Wilson's resignation, declared the wage terms recommended by the Wage Stabilization Board were "by no means unreasonable." He said he believed steel profits were "many times higher" than the proposed new wage costs.

Wilson's letter was dated Friday but made effective today. It told the President Wilson could not "accept public responsibility for major stabilization actions which I cannot control."

The President voiced regret and paid tribute to Wilson's "vigor, competence and effectiveness" in his post. Both the letters were phrased in friendly and respectful terms. But they disclosed a vast policy conflict.

Originally, Wilson favored neither wage nor price increases in steel. He told associates they would have the widest inflationary repercussions.

When the Wage Stabilization Board this month adopted the 1 1/2 cents an hour recommendation, he protested that it was "a serious threat" to economic stability. But he finally conceded that it must be the basis for negotiations between the industry and CIO's 650,000 steel unionists.

2 E. Liverpool Youths Admit Series Of Thefts

Two 17-year-old East Liverpool youths will be given a hearing today before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin at Lisbon after they were arrested Friday following a car chase from Chester, W. Va., to East Liverpool.

The youths confessed to a series of thefts of gasoline, batteries, oil, car tools, shotgun shells, tire tubes and wheels. Chester authorities said most of the loot has been recovered.

Six motor vehicles, including a city firetruck, were slightly damaged in the three traffic mishaps which occurred here over the weekend.

At 3:37 p. m. Saturday, the fire truck operated by George K. Schmid of 230 W. Fifth St. scrapped a truck-trailer stopped on E. State St. by Donald Webber of Reading, Pa., as the firetruck turned west on E. State St. from S. Broadway.

Slight damages were caused to a fire extinguisher setting on the firetruck and to the front bumper of the other vehicle. The firetruck was going to an auto fire at the rear of the old city hall at the time of the mishap.

Cars driven by Ray A. Carsey of 111 S. Ellsworth Ave. and James K. Kelley of 577 S. Madison Ave. collided at 4:55 p. m. Sunday on E. State St., causing minor damage to each.

Rudolph Pitcar of 354 W. 10th St. reported to police that as he was driving south on S. Ellsworth Ave. at 2:57 p. m. Sunday his car struck the door of a parked car opened by Carmen Notario of 342 S. Ellsworth Ave. Both autos were slightly damaged.

Ohio Democrats In 'Blue Monday'

Party Leaders Unsure Of Whom To Support

COLUMBUS (AP)—A lot of Ohio Democratic party leaders faced a confused political wash-day today. They weren't quite sure just who they favored to be President.

President Truman pulled the rug out from under the feet of a number of Democrats when he said he wouldn't run again.

Many of these leaders figured that even if President Truman decided not to run he would put the finger on the heir apparent. So, they rang in former U.S. Sen. Robert Bulkley as the favorite son of Ohio Democrats, obviously subject to the wishes of President Truman on the second ballot at the party's national convention.

Under this step, they carried on a bitter fight against Estes Kefauver, the Tennessee senator who grabbed the brass ring with his crime investigation committee.

Didn't Pick Favorite
But, on this politically blue Monday, these party leaders are faced with the unpleasant fact that President Truman retired from the arena without picking a favorite.

The question is: Who do the Bulkley favorite son delegates vote for now?

An even more bitter question is: Can they now be elected as delegates to seats for which Kefauver has entered delegate candidates?

One of the shrewdest political minds in the state sees the situation this way:

Lacking a rallying point, the Democratic leaders back of Bulkley—in other words, the leadership of the Ohio Democratic party in power—will hurriedly try for an Ohioan around which to stand until they can sort out trends.

This person, who can not be identified by name, believes their first move will be to try to get Gov. Frank J. Lausche to seek national office.

He believes the move will be made within two weeks.

It will fail, Governor Lausche said many weeks ago in an interview with the Associated Press—since repeated by other newsmen—that he had no national political ambitions and he has said privately that he can not be drafted.

At Disadvantage

If President Truman doesn't pick a favored candidate between now and the May 6 primary, this is going to leave the Bulkley backers at serious disadvantage in trying to be elected delegates.

There are some alternatives. The Bulkley boys can plump for another candidate—say Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois. He may well be the Truman choice.

Or, they can join the Kefauver ranks in districts where the coon-skin cap candidate is not represented.

Whatever they do, there are two men in Ohio who came out of the Truman swan song in much better shape politically than before. They are Governor Lausche and Rep. Wayne Hays, the Flushing congressman who is leading the Kefauver campaign in Ohio.

No longer is Hays guilty of political heresy. He's with the leading faction.

No longer does Governor Lausche face the necessity of favoring any particular candidate.

Both men are understandably happy.

WHATEVER YOU THINK of a guy who's married to an eighth wife and has his eye on a ninth, you can't say he's a quitter. Tommy Manville's divorce settlements cost around $1,000,000 of his asbestos inheritance, and he indicates he's beginning to feel the pinch. Here he's shown with former wives at time of marriage.

Rubber Workers Urged To Return To Jobs

AKRON (AP)—A union leader has urged production workers to return to their jobs at the B. F. Goodrich Co. This plea was made by George R. Bass, president of Goodrich Local 5 of the CIO-United Rubberworkers.

Bass pointed out that the production workers were not on an authorized strike. They have refused to go through picket lines set up by 200 striking office workers since Friday, the day Bass and eight others were convicted of contempt.

E. U. Whitacre Gets Patent On Baled Straw Shredder

E. U. Whitacre of the Lisbon Rd. is not a man to spend ten minutes on a job where two will suffice.

Through faithful adherence to this principle, he has emerged as the inventor of a baled straw shredder which saves considerable time and menial labor in stock feeding on his farm.

Heretofore, the process involved the tearing apart of the bales with a pitchfork and subsequent shredding by hand—a method which consumed from five to ten minutes time.

The mechanical device can accomplish the same end within less than half that period, and with no wear and tear on the biceps. Weighing about 200 pounds, the affair consists of a steel drum and beater, both inset with sharp teeth, and is mounted on casters. An electric motor supplies the power.

The device at the Whitacre farm is set at the top of an elevator which carries the straw between the drum and beater, chewing the bale into loose fragments. The straw is then easily strewn about the barn for the cows.

Although Mr. Whitacre completed his machine two years ago, he only recently received a patent on it. At present he is biding his time, hoping that some manufacturer will consider producing and marketing the device.

Mr. Whitacre explains that even though the shredder was invented to solve his own problem and is of primary use to farmers, it also can be effectively applied in factories to facilitate the packing of dishes or bricks.

Nurserymen and landscape gardeners are also potential buyers.

White, Ex-Senate Leader, Dead

AUBURN, Me. (AP)—Former U.S. Senator Wallace H. White, Jr., 74, an expert on communications and shipping legislation who was majority leader in the Republican-controlled 80th Congress, died in his sleep early today.

He had been ill several months with a recurrence of a heart ailment that had plagued him for years.

He retired early in 1949 after 18 years in the Senate and 14 in the House.

Because of his interest in communications—he wrote the nation's first radio law—White represented the United States at several international conferences. He was chairman of the American delegation to the International Radio Conference at Cairo, Egypt, in 1938.

As a Representative, he helped draft the Jones-White act of 1923 which lifted America's merchant marine out of a slump that followed the first World War.

With the late Sen. Vandenberg of Michigan as party conference chairman, and Sen. Taft of Ohio as steering committee chairman, White was one of a triumvirate that influenced the Senate majority in 1947 and 1948—the last time his party had control of Congress.

'Terrible Turtle' Has Deadly Snap

Head-on cutaway view shows driver, prone, almost surrounded by rockets.

Here is how driver would squeeze into the shell-tight confines of the "Turtle."

Exterior view of the "Terrible Turtle," showing rocket launcher on top and ring of shotgun-shell ports at edge of "shell."

A novel one-man tank, designed by Les G. Scherer, of Los Angeles, Calif., looks like a turtle, but there the resemblance ends. The "turtle," which encloses the operator completely in a sheath of armor will roll along at 30 miles per hour, is equipped with periscopes for fore-and-aft vision, and is armed with two 30-cal. machine guns, a rocket launcher. Around the perimeter are 650 ports for firing conventional shotgun shells. They could be fired electronically at any soldiers approaching the vehicle. Sketches are from Popular Science magazine.

that gives you unbelievably efficient washing—rinsing—drying action.

● It's "Centric" agitation...the most amazing washing action you ever saw! Washing begins like a shampoo, with a little water and the full amount of soap (or detergent). A rich, creamy "lather" quickly loosens the dirt, before main washing action with full water supply gets under way. Turbulent, soapy suds are gently forced through every stitch of clothing—from daintiest fabrics to dirtiest work or play clothes for a cleaner, whiter wash.

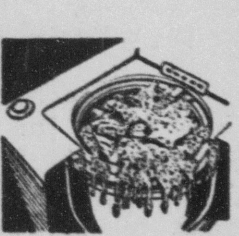

CLEANER WASHINGS

You've never seen clothes washed so white, nor colors so bright. ABC's unique agitator gently flexes the clothes in turbulent, soapy suds, getting every stitch really clean. No twist, no stretch, no strain, no "balling" of clothes.

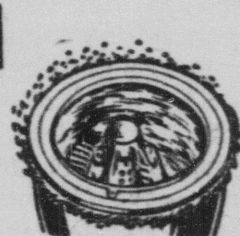

BETTER RINSINGS

Three wonderful spray and flush-away rinsings carry all dirt and suds up and out of the tub. Dirt hasn't a chance to settle back into clothes.

"SPIN-AIRE" DRYING

ABC's new and exclusive "Spin-Aire" drying removes all free water from the clothes...damp-dries them soft, fluffy, wrinkle-free...without matting or tangling.

Town Hall Patrons To See Color Films Of Iran Tuesday

The color movie on Iran which Kenneth Richter will show at the Town Hall meeting in the high school auditorium at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, was filmed at great personal risk.

Iran, a land of paradox, is a country where the struggle of modern oil interests is carried on against a background which was old when ancient Greece was young.

The ancient heritage of Persia (Iran) is shown in striking pictures of the ruins of Persepolis, the tombs of Kings, and the art and architecture of the Islam era.

Kenneth Richter, a native of Massachusetts showed an active interest in astronomy and at the age of 11 was constructing his own telescopes. He won a scholarship to Harvard and after college concentrated on camera work. After making several documentary films in South America, he went to Hollywood and for nearly five years worked with major studio camera crews.

He has made films for the United States government, has made educational releases for the Encyclopedia Britannica Films and Coronet Magazine and his still pictures have appeared in leading national magazines.

It will be the last Town Hall meeting of the season.

Civic Group Backs Soap Box Derby

The Salem Civic Committee endorsed the Soap Box Derby which will be held here June 22. The committee's action was unanimous, recognizing the event as a community enterprise and one which stimulates wholesome activities for boys.

Interest, meanwhile, is reported by Parker Chevrolet Co. where about 10 boys have now purchased wheels and registered for the race.

Parker emphasized that numerous sponsors are available to help boys meet the cost of the racers. Boys who would like to enter the race should come to his office where they will be given the name of a firm wishing to sponsor an entry.

Fathers of boys who want to register must accompany the applicant. Official rules are available to the registrants.

The Salem race is scheduled for Damascus Rd., Blackburn Hill. It is co-sponsored by the Salem Junior Chamber of Commerce and Chevrolet with assistance from other Salem civic clubs.

The race is open to boys aged 11 through 15 living in Salem or within a 50-mile radius of here.

There's A Connection

Two apparently unrelated news stories—one, that Defense Mobilization does not want to raise the price of steel; the other that more metal will be allocated to the automobile industry—are closely connected in reality.

Defense policy as worked out by Mr. Wilson and his assistants calls for a balanced economy. This will mean an adequate supply of automobiles and an adequate schedule of rearmament. But if the price of steel were forced up sharply by the terms of a new labor contract in that basic industry, balance would be unlikely.

Philip Murray and the members of the wage policy committee of United Steelworkers know what Mr. Wilson knows—that the toughest problem the country faces is not how to achieve military security but how to keep the economy in balance.

The extra supply of metal, including steel, which is going to be allocated to the auto industry and other manufacturers would mean very little if raising prices kept adding to consumer resistance. That is only a polite way of saying that many potential consumers have run out of buying power because prices have outdistanced their incomes.

That is part of Mr. Wilson's job as chief of defense mobilization to keep the economy in balance. He has a heavy economic responsibility. So do the men who are negotiating for a new contract in the basic steel industry. They cannot dissociate themselves from the consequences of their collective bargaining.

What Do People Really Think?

As primary results from Wisconsin and Nebraska are made known in the next few days, there will be more of the assumptions which followed the primaries in New Hampshire and Minnesota.

It has become the chief aim of candidates and their backers to shape those assumptions to suit their purposes. As reflections of what people really think about the presidential prospects of various men, primaries are no more reliable than the discredited public opinion polls.

While there might conceivably be merit in a national primary, which always is discussed as a hopeful possibility in presidential election years, even a national primary would be subject to strong local influences.

Certainly the mere fact that Stassen emerged with the most votes and all the delegates in Minnesota did not prove anything. Eisenhower, who came out second in the voting and with no delegates at all, claimed the victory in Minnesota. And even Eisenhower's showing was in large part the result of local circumstances which upset the calculations of even the observers on the scene.

Primaries are not "eyewash," as Mr. Truman called them. But it seems significant that every national election year when the primaries are over there was nothing conclusive in the results. The only conclusive thing was the assumptions by which candidates and their backers tried to sway opinion, sometimes successfully, sometimes unsuccessfully.

It Was A Good System

MASS PRODUCTION made products cheaper and easier to distribute by whittling down the unit cost. While Henry Ford did not invent the technique—the printing industry invented it—he was the first to apply it to an intricate product like an automobile.

He and his competitors put a nation on wheels by giving potential buyers of automobiles what they wanted at a price so low they could afford to buy. In so doing, the auto manufacturers put their own employees on wheels, too. The employees had a fair share in the fruits of the successful technique.

Hundreds of thousands of employees producing cheap automobiles at good wages created mass buying power, which was the indispensable other half of the mass production-market equation. All of this had been obvious up to recent times.

But lately there has been a notion that savings in the unit cost of mass production should be diverted to wages exclusively.

Furthermore, not only are all the savings claimed by wage negotiators, but they also claim additional money increases to offset the depreciation of dollars. The consumer is squeezed between this tendency on the part of labor and the tendency on the part of management to preserve profit margins against the depreciation of dollars, is neglected.

It was a good system which did not neglect the consumer. A system which neglects him is in effect a denial of one half of the equation of mass production.

Some of the Easter hats may be smaller, but we doubt that they'll cut down the overhead expense.

There wouldn't be near as many rich men if folk didn't profit by the mistakes the rest of us make.

Disarmament

By PETER EDSON

Lack Of It Directly Traceable To Russia

WASHINGTON—New efforts by the U. S. government to obtain United Nations agreement on international disarmament may look somewhat futile.

In the face of stalemated peace negotiations in Korea, proposals for a $51 billion U. S. defense budget nearly $5 billion more for foreign aid and the building up of General Eisenhower's European army, any talk of reducing armaments may sound like a waste of time. But in this pre-Easter season, these disarmament talks offer about the only hope in sight for ultimate peace on earth.

The United States, Britain, France and 48 other non-Communist countries made a lot of hay in the new disarmament plan they submitted to the U. N. General Assembly in Paris last November. This was the plan which caused Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky to say, "I could not sleep last night because I kept laughing at the ludicrous... babble!"

Western countries were quick to pick up the effective anti-Communist argument in this speech. Posters were plastered all over western Europe showing Vishinsky laughing at the idea of disarmament.

When the Soviet Foreign Minister got his instructions straightened out by Moscow a week later, he changed his tune. But what came out was the same old song of a Russian arms plan.

It called for: First, prohibition of all atomic weapons, with all countries revealing their atomic stockpiles within 30 days. Second, reduction of major powers' armies by one-third. Third, international control of arms by the Security Council.

THE GIMMICKS in this Russian plan have long been apparent. First, Russia has inferior atomic bomb strength, so banning their use would be to her advantage. Second, Russia, never demobilized after World War II, so her armed forces are now bigger and a one-third cut wouldn't hurt her as much. Third, control of disarmament by the Security Council would give Russia veto power over every proposal.

The American-British-French disarmament plan, on the other hand, offers a workable formula. What's more, this plan has been approved by the military authorities of the major Western powers. It is a plan they are prepared to carry out as proposed and live with after its adoption.

This plan would involve first a census and disclosure of all armed forces and weapons, with verification of inventories by inspection on a continuing basis. This proposal would check any Soviet bluffs on disarmament proposals, for thus far the Russians have refused to consider any inspection of their military resources.

Second, the western powers propose effective international control over all conventional weapons production and all atomic energy production. This is to insure that all industrial output is for peaceful purposes only. It would cover such things as steel and petroleum production as well as fissionable materials.

Third would come agreement on definite schedules for the balanced reduction of all armed forces and armaments.

These proposals are to be drafted in treaty form by the new International Disarmament Commission now meeting in New York. Benjamin V. Cohen is the principal U. S. representative. Vishinsky is not there, but his place is taken by Jacob Malik.

While it is true that Russia will have a veto in the approval of this treaty—though not in its later execution—it is pointed out that any treaty which Russia does not accept will not be worth anything anyway.

AS SECRETARY of State Dean Acheson said at Paris in urging the Russians to accept this proposal, "It contains no tricks." If the Russians don't take it, the responsibility will be on their heads and the West will have another valuable anti-Communist argument.

It has taken six years to make this much progress towards disarmament in the United Nations. In 1946 there was a two-pronged effort to get results. First was a commission on limitations of conventional armaments. Second was an atomic energy control group.

These commissions met intermittently for two years. In January, 1948 the General Assembly approved an atomic energy control plan, but the Russians refused to adopt it.

In January, 1950 the Russians walked out of both commissions and remained out for a year. Then the Russians asked that talks be resumed.

Australia then proposed that the atomic and conventional armaments commissions be combined. President Truman approved this move in a speech to the General Assembly last May.

This came after a group of 23 Senators and Congressmen, headed by Senator Flanders of Vermont, urged the President to renege on disarmament negotiations as the only hope. Senator Flanders declared "We have nothing to lose" if the Soviets reject such negotiations, while if they accept, "The whole world wins."

Health To You

Fibrositis Attacks Muscles, Ligaments

Dr. Jordan

Mrs. C. asks for a discussion on fibrositis, especially that which is centered in the back of the head and neck, and wants to know whether it can become serious or may spread to other parts of the body.

Fibrositis is a kind of rheumatism which affects particularly the soft tissues such as the muscles and ligaments.

It may center around the neck, as Mrs. C. suggests, or almost anywhere else in the body. In general, it is characterized by pain and aching, soreness when the part is moved and a certain amount of stiffness.

The end of the word—"itis," means inflammation. Consequently fibrositis implies that there is a slight inflammation of certain of the soft tissues. As one would expect, therefore, fibrositis may start suddenly with pain in some part of the body for no apparent reason. At other times it may begin gradually with fatigue coming before the soreness, pain and stiffness.

There are many possible causes for fibrositis. The most common is associated with some infectious or toxic condition. This is one kind of rheumatism in which removal of an infected tooth or infected tonsils is sometimes of benefit.

Injury is also a common cause but sometimes the injury may have been so slight as hardly to have been noticed. Cold, over-exertion and over-exposure are commonly at fault.

Around the shoulder and lower portion of the back, the neck, the tissues around the large joints, and the chest wall are common locations. Pain is almost always present but swelling is far less constant. Tenderness to pressure is the rule. Nodules or little bumps under the skin are frequently felt in or near the tender region.

If the fibrositis is associated with an acute infection, then rest and the appropriate treatment for that infection is needed. If it comes with upsets of the stomach and intestines, perhaps a liquid or soft diet is in order.

The removal of an infected tooth or tonsils may be indicated in some cases. Drugs may be helpful but have to be used with care.

If repeated small injury is the cause, then that, of course, should be eliminated. If bad weather or exposure is responsible, then staying indoors and avoiding exposure may be enough. Other treatment depends on what appears to be the cause or causes and what can be done for it or them.

Many people have had attacks of fibrositis at one time or another. Most people recover without any treatment. However, most attacks of fibrositis are rather painful and quick relief is badly desired.

Ill Wind For Senator Taft

Freedom Of Inquiry

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Mr. Dore Schary, the motion picture producer, in the course of a lawsuit against a society in Los Angeles, known as the wage earners committee, issued a public statement that is of more than passing interest.

The wage earners committee has assumed the task of picketing motion pictures to which it objects. Labor unions have established the legality of the right to picket. Now that picketing is being done in non-labor matters, it comes as a shock that a social device intended to be used as a weapon of labor is being used as a weapon of opinion.

Picketing is legalized coercion. It has always been doubtful to me whether the picket line could be legalized in view of the citizen's right to have access to buildings without molestation.

However, the picket line has been legalized and will now be used for any purpose whatsoever until the public gets fed up with it and counter-legislation is passed. This is an example of what happens when a wrong device is legalized for political reasons.

Mr. Schary feels that he has been libeled and has gone to the courts. This is any man's right in the United States. His purpose is interesting. He goes to the courts, not to punish the libelers, but to set his own record straight, which is what he says in his advertisement.

THAT IS A fascinating procedure, particularly for those who feel aggrieved at being held up to opprobrium for their conduct. How this can be done in our courts, under the prevailing rules of evidence, it is difficult to grasp. A witness cannot read a statement in a court of law, as, for instance, Owen Lattimore did before the McCarran committee. He can only answer relevant and material questions. If the questions are not asked, they cannot be answered.

Still, a competent lawyer can find ways of getting statements into the record. It would seem to me more feasible if Mr. Schary voluntarily appeared before the House Committee on Un-American Activities and asked to be heard in defense of his honor as an American, he believing that it had been impugned.

In his advertisement, Dore Schary makes this statement: "Further, freedom of speech does not include the right of private groups to assume the functions of established government agencies and boards of governors."

He must have written that hurriedly, because it is altogether contrary to the history of the United States. Most important "purifications" and "reforms" in this country are the product of investigations by private organizations and individuals who created such furores that the Congress and state legislatures had to respond to their activities. It is absurd, in American life and tradition, to depend upon government for all things. After all, our theory of politics is that government is the agent, not the master, of the people, and that the "people" consists of many individuals each of whom has inalienable rights.

FOR INSTANCE, a clergyman in New York, Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, was annoyed with vice. Parkhurst organized a society, did his own investigating, created a furore and the red light district was dissipated.

Upton Sinclair, a newspaperman, wrote a book called, "The Jungle," describing the horrors of the Chicago stockyards. His book stirred the nation to that Congress passed our pure food laws.

In New York City, many children were killed by the railroad running through a street called descriptively, "Death Avenue." William Randolph Hearst and his newspapers, for years, conducted a campaign against "Death Avenue," forcing first the employment of various protective devices and then the removal of the tracks.

The New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the various woman suffrage organizations, labor unions, farmers organizations, etc., etc., may be cited as examples of private societies which, adopting their own programs, devised means to bring them to public attention, attacking and condemning their opponents, making investigations and influencing legislation by Congress and the state legislatures.

The right of the people to assemble for their own purposes, to petition Congress for redress of grievances, to state their grievances by speech and to publish them in the press, or in pamphlets, brochures and books, remains, in this country, unimpaired.

Of course, if anyone feels aggrieved by all this, he is free to do the same or to go into the courts for his remedy. That is freedom.

A Spoon In Your Eye

By TRUMAN TWILL

Ever since the Bell Telephone Co. began to show subscribers how much easier everything could be if they complied with a common-sense code of telephone manners, the idea has been taking hold.

Manners are not for fops, contrary to a common notion among the un-mannered. They are for people who realize the most efficient way to get things done is to get rid of confusion and friction.

Some day even the confusion of street and highway traffic could be minimized by better manners. In the meantime, there are some lesser opportunities to exploit.

The basis of all manners is consideration for the other fellow. Anything which keeps the other fellow from being embarrassed or squirming at a disadvantage is worth the effort. Manners are built on the Golden Rule.

Outside the home, the only source of instruction in standard social behavior is the school. Teachers, both by example and by direct instruction, have a powerful influence, if they use it.

In too many cases, they exert the only influence there is. The harsh fact is that even in families which could be expected to know better, the rising generation has neither the benefit of example nor instruction in manners.

If the deficit isn't overcome by instruction elsewhere, the result may be a lifetime of semi-barbaric behavior which trends on auto, creates ill will, bad impressions and needless misunderstanding.

It would be worthwhile to make certain that the rudiments of social behavior were being taught systematically in the public school system, on the assumption that the effect would be cumulative. In a couple of generations the beneficiaries of the teaching would pass along what they had learned by force of example, if not by actual instruction.

The policy would be to stick to rudiments—such everyday essentials as how to eat food without making others feel uncomfortable, how to handle the necessity of making proper introductions, how to show a decent respect for the elderly and so on.

A story in this connection is about a young man whose outstanding record in college brought him to the attention of one of the large corporations. He was given a job on the basis of his demonstrated aptitude in chemistry. Unfortunately, he had grown up in a home which practiced none of the niceties of social behavior.

After the first few years with the corporation, he realized he was carrying the handicap of his lack of training in manners. He had to make a special effort to unlearn habits which were not acceptable and to learn which habits would not offend others. He could have profited by systematic education in manners along with his education in mathematics, history, science and grammar.

The telephone subscriber who used to answer, "Yeah, whaddya want?" has learned it works better to announce who he is and save time. That is practical manners, the only kind worth worrying about; but well worth worrying about in a society trying to get things done more efficiently.

The first postal services are believed to have been started by the ancient Persian emperors.

Truman

By HAL BOYLE

How Will History Rate Him?

NEW YORK

How will history rate Harry S. Truman, who has staked out a "for rent" sign on the White House?

When the partisan din of our times dies away, the chances are he will be allotted a greater niche than many of his critics now suspect.

This little man of big surprises may rank as the most warmly human President since Abraham Lincoln. For surely one of the greatest sources of his appeal has been the fact he looked and talked so much like the average citizen.

His great office was thrust upon him unexpectedly, and any American could look at his picture and say, "Why, the same lightning might have struck me." That was a big advantage to him—any voter could imagine himself being put in Harry's spot.

EVEN IN HIS ACT of voluntarily removing himself from the 1952 presidential race—the latest of many unpredictable acts—some people are sure to say, "Well, there's a man that finally listened to his wife." And they will feel they understand him even better.

If he now goes on and steps out of the political scene altogether, his final stature in the story of our nation will begin to emerge more clearly. The small legends of leadership will cluster around his name and fame, molding him into the pattern that after generations will know.

How will they remember Harry? They will remember him as a man who would rather be senator than President, and would rather be a Gold Medal of Honor winner than either.

They will remember him as a man who could pitch a baseball with either hand and look in a horse's mouth and tell its age.

They will remember him as a man who helped his wife dry the dishes and insisted that she edit all his speeches.

They will remember him as a man who went broke in business, spent 20 years clearing off his $20,000 debts and went on to spend more money than any peacetime President in history.

THEY WILL REMEMBER him as a man who assumed his high office with a feeling of unpreparedness, but who went on to make vast decisions of breath-taking boldness.

They will remember him for his fantastic, stubborn loyalty to his friends—and be in more of a position to judge whether that was a virtue or a defect.

They will remember him as one who rose personally unstained from a corrupt political machine to practice the trade of professional politician with an art probably unmatched since Lincoln.

Historians are sure to write of him as a man less simple than he seemed, and they will label as the greatest mistake of his enemies the error they made of consistently low-rating his profound knowledge of people in the mass.

That boy could plow the straightest row of corn in the country, his mother once said of Truman. "He was a farmer who could do everything there was to do just a little better than anyone else."

But he, himself, said:

"I'VE WORKED HARD all my life. That's the only recipe for success I know."

Truman has always been proud of being a professional politician. How could he, himself, like best to be remembered—this man who called the White House "the finest prison in the world."

The key can probably be found in two statements he made during his presidency:

"Government is politics and in the hands of able and honest politicians government is likely to prosper. So many men who have been attacked as politicians while they were alive have gained fame after their deaths that I think the best description of a statesman is a dead politician."

"Nothing in my life amounts to anything but world peace. That is all I am working for."

But it is too early to determine yet how Harry Truman will be most remembered. For the issues of his lifetime are still undecided. (AP Newsfeatures)

Frances Hoffmaster Becomes Bride Of Sgt. Carol Kinsey

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoffmaster of the Ellsworth Rd. announce the marriage of their daughter, Frances, to Sgt. Carol Kinsey, which was performed Thursday, March 20, in the Hospital Chapel at Fort Hood, Tex.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Luther (Elizabeth) Kinsey of McGregor, Tex., and the late Mr. Kinsey.

Maj. John B. Duncan, assistant post chaplain, performed the double-ring ceremony in the presence of the two attendants, Cpl. Mathilda Klevesahl of Krakow, Wisc. and Sgt. Lawrence W. Ashley of Waco, Tex. All members of the wedding party wore their Army uniforms.

Following the ceremony, the couple was honored at a dinner party at the Non-Commissioned Officer's (NCO) Club, given by M/Sgt. Doyle Atchley, former employer of the groom.

The attractive dinner table had as its centerpiece a tiered wedding cake with the top tier in the shape of a heart on which were inscribed the words "I Do." The bride is a graduate of Goshen Union High School and was employed by Schuck & Legstrom, Accountants, prior to her enlistment in the Women's Army Corps in April of last year. She is a corporal.

Sgt. Kinsey, who attended high school at Osgelby, Tex., enlisted in the Army in October, 1948, and has served overseas in Panama and Trinidad. He is now with the 400th ASU Medic Detachment at Fort Hood.

They will make their home in Hood Village, Tex.

Betty Stratton Is Feted At Bridal Shower

In anticipation of the wedding of Miss Betty Stratton and Earl Solomon, which will take place at 3 p.m. Palm Sunday in the Methodist Church, the bride-to-be was showered with personal gifts at a party Friday evening in the Stratton home on E. Fourth St.

The surprise shower affair, arranged by her sisters, Misses Ruth and Jean Stratton, entertained 30 guests from Salem, Youngstown, Harrisville and vicinity towns. Little Barbara Cozad, who was three years old Saturday, wheeled in the gifts for Miss Stratton in a wheelbarrow bedecked with pink and white crepe paper. The refreshment appointments also were in the same color scheme.

Favors were miniature girls in silver attached to nut cups. Candy sweetpots decorated the beautiful shower cake. Miss Marie Bundy of Harrisville, Mrs. Walter Miller and Miss Marilyn Stenger of Youngstown were the contest prize winners.

Miss Stratton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Stratton and her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Solomon of Perry St. Custom of open church will be observed at the wedding and invitations have been issued for the reception. Rev. Richard Swogger will officiate at the nuptials.

Salem's Two Parks Get "Face-Lifting"

Salem's Centennial and West End parks are responding favorably to the annual "face-lifting" underway in preparation for the warm season. Fred S. Smith, caretaker, said today.

New swings for small children have been installed at Centennial Park and other new equipment will also be erected as money becomes available, he said. Part of the roads in the park have been hard surfaced and the rest have been slugged. Hard surface floors have also been constructed in two open shelters.

Mr. Smith requests that all park gatherings and parties of any size be registered with him prior to the dates of the events so that they do not conflict with one another in the use of limited park facilities.

In the past four years, Mr. Smith said, attendance at Centennial Park has more than doubled, causing some restrictions in the date schedule.

McKinley School Pupils To Present Operetta

Members of grade three at McKinley School will present "The Gift," an operetta in three acts, at 2:15 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons in the school auditorium.

The operetta is based on historical fact and employs characteristic excerpts from the immortal works of the great composer, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

Miss Ruth Michaud is the director. Miss Natalie Sharpnack is the principal. Joseph Stadlander, Martha Ann Dougherty, Nancy Couchie, Harry Izenour and Rain Voogla are in charge of court scenery.

Film Of Florida Trip Shown To B.N.C. Club

Mrs. Ray Stanley showed pictures of her recent trip to Florida when the B. and N. C. Club met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Ellen Williams, northwest of Salem.

The group also enjoyed television and visiting. A chain letter was written to Mrs. Emmor Engle, a former club member who recently moved to California.

Assisting the hostess with the lunch was Mrs. Paul Martig, Mrs. Alfred Martig and Mrs. James Chamberlain. The next meeting will be April 27 at the Chamberlain home, northwest of Salem.

EVERYBODY GETS INTO THE ACT

Girls watch Heston and date Carol Stannard start for a dance.

PERSONAL APPEARANCE tours for movie stars usually are limited to several stage shows, luncheons with film critics and a few radio and TV stints. But Charlton Heston, topline player in the circus film, The Greatest Show on Earth, changed the routine during his recent visit to Maywood, N. J. Heston showed up to kick off the fund-raising festivities for a local Teen-Age canteen. After helping to hang up the decorations, he joined in the dancing and sampled some of the tasty cakes from the bake sale. He even agreed to become first prize in a raffle. The lucky girl who sold the most tickets and won Heston as a dinner guest in her home and an escort to the big dance was pretty Carol Stannard, 14-year-old student at Maywood high school. After Heston left for the next stop on his tour, the youngsters couldn't wait to see the movie—after they had held a three-ring circus of their own.

Heston tries his best to blow a balloon for the decorations.

Patty Berg Wins Women's Golf Tourney

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Weary Patty Berg won the first New Orleans Women's Open golf tournament by five strokes although she turned in an eight-over-par 82 final round.

Patty, who was ahead by ten strokes after 54 holes, saw that margin melt away gradually before finishing the 72-hole tournament yesterday with a 299 to take the title and $1,000.

Her play in the final round was a shocking reversal of earlier tournament play.

Miss Berg had a 73-74-70—217 that was five under par for the first 54 holes. She blamed her poor play of yesterday on being "very tired."

Marilynn Smith, a vivacious 22-year-old blonde from Wichita, Kans., and Miss Betty Jameson, the veteran starter from San Antonio, Tex., finished in a tie for second five strokes behind Miss Berg with 304 strokes.

Finishing fourth with a 306 was Louise Suggs, a native of Georgia who now calls Cincinnati home.

Babe Zaharias, the leading money winner among the women professionals this year, tied for fifth with Mary Lena Faulk, the sensational shooting amateur from Thomasville, Ga. They posted 311 strokes.

Fishing License On All Lakes Required

An opinion of Attorney General William O'Neil, unanimously accepted by Wildlife Conservation Council, requires a state license to fish on all lakes that have a stream flowing in or out, seasonal, periodical or continuous.

This license is in addition to the fishing rights permit issued by the lake owner, Mahoning County Game Warden Earl Ressler, said today. Among the lakes affected by this law in this area are Pine Lake and Dunn Eden or any so-called private lake where fishing is done.

Bo McMillin Dies After Heart Attack

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Alvin N. (Bo) McMillin, who coached Indiana University to a Big Ten championship and an undefeated season in 1945, died early this morning at his home.

The silver-haired "Mr. Football" whose career as player and coach spanned almost four decades, had been critically ill with stomach cancer since last fall. But his physician said his death was due to a heart attack.

McMillin was 57. Early in his coaching career, the prematurely gray Bo had brought to the game a philosophy best summed up by a locker room sign, "You can be as tough as nails and still be a gentleman."

McMillin became a nationally known football figure as a player when he led Little Centre College to fame in 1917-21. He retired as coach of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League last fall. Failing health forced him out.

Amvets Consolation Winners; Ashland's Bob Miller Named Most Valuable Of Cage Classic

The Ashland Myers Pumps breezed through the semi-finals of the 17th annual Little City Invitational basketball tournament Saturday afternoon by whipping Massillon's Army-Navy club and then cashed in for the championship in the evening by knocking off the Akron Mackey Radiators, 83-68.

The Myers outfit showed much class throughout the entire tournament and was at its peak when it faced the rugged Massillon team, beating them by 17 points, 80-63, and the Mackey quintet, whom they licked by 15 markers.

Led by Jack Harris' 27 points in the afternoon, the Myers team outscored the foes in the first three quarters and, with their smaller players in the final stanza, they were outscored, 19-14.

AKRON MACKEY tangled with the Amvets in the second game of the afternoon and after three quarters ran away with the game against the Amvets, 67-48. The Mackey team led 13-12 at the quarter but the Amvets romped back to lead at halftime, 31-27.

However, the Akron quintet scored 18 and 22 markers in the final two quarters with the Amvets getting 13 in the third frame and a mere four in the last quarter.

Joe Avalado and Jim Nowakowski, a 6'8" lad, led the Akron five with 20 and 15 points, respectively, while Francis Lanney led the local quintet with 14 markers.

THE AMVETS and Massillon clashed in the consolation game of the evening and the Amvets managed to win the game, 67-62, in the final frame as they tallied 23 markers. John Fridon and Lanney sparked the winners with 18 and 14 points while Tony Ulivito, a husky cager, led the Army-Navy squad with 23 markers, after getting 22 in the semi-final game.

The championship game turned out to be Ashland most of the way as the Myers team meshed 25 markers in the first period and held Akron to 16. The second quarter netted 15 for Ashland and they yielded only 11 to the Mackey five.

Twenty-seven markers in the third stanza clinched the title for the red-clad Ashlanders, even though they were outscored in the final frame, 22-16.

BOB MILLER LED the Ashland team to the victory with 21 markers and Harris contributed 17. Miller was honored with the Most Valuable Player award as well as the foul shooting trophy. A Bowling Green cager this season, he caged 25 of 28 shots from the foul line and is one of the best all-around players seen in this area.

Tourney Manager Ward Zeller named both Miller and Harris on the All-Tourney team along with three Akron players, two Parma cagers, two from the Amvets and a Massillon basketball.

Nowakowski, Avalado and Bill Dilling made the team from the Akron squad, Bill Persuak and Mike Termino of Parma, a team which was beaten by Ashland in the quarter-finals, the Amvets' Mutt Schaeffer and Dick Treleven and Ulivito of the Massillon team.

Zeller awarded the trophies to the teams and the individual trophies to the members of the winning Ashland squad. Despite the lack of teams in the tournament, it turned out to be very full of competition and gave the fans quite a bit of action.

Sports Chatter

BY FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS (AP) — Before the 1952 Ohio High School basketball tourney gets tucked away in our memory books, let's chat about the classic abut.

From all sides, suggestions are flooding in advocating the state Fairgrounds be abandoned as the tourney site, and indications are that the barn-like, antiquated structure is on the losing end. After next year the cage carnival may go one the road, running up and down Route 3 while showing in Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati.

The state board of control doubled the field to eight teams in each class for 1952, after a long experiment with a four-team tourney. The coaches still want 16 teams in each class, eliminating the present regionals.

No matter whether the full 16 in each class make the grade in 1953, we have a couple of suggestions—both the result of conversations with coaches and fans.

THE FIRST, and big one, is that the Class B contingent be taken out of the "orphan" class and placed on a par with their Class A brethren. After all, the Class B squads are the survivors of 865 starters, while the "A" teams are the best among 251 original quintets.

But the Class B squads this season, just as in the days when 16 in each class reached the state meet, were relegated to Ohio State University's gym for their first round games. And their subsequent contests were all played in the afternoon. All Class A games were at the coliseum, with only two first round games during the daytime.

We'd like to see the Class B teams brought to Columbus on Wednesday of tournament week for their first round games—all of which would be played at the regular tournament site. The "A" clubs would thus have Thursday for their first round games, the B's taking the day off.

In Friday's semi-finals, we'd like to see one Class A and one Class B game in the afternoon, and the same in the evening, instead of the B's being confined to the daytime hours, and the A's to the evening.

Saturday's finals could go on as usual, with the B championship in the afternoon and the A in the evening, for the place is sold out anyway.

But the Class B teams are entitled to more recognition, something they haven't had since 1934-35 when the fabulous Waterloo Wonders stole the show from their big brothers.

THE OTHER CHANGE we'd make would be to take the selection of officials out of the hands of the coaches, especially the naming of the arbiters for the championship game in which each mentor picks one whistle-tooter.

We're not indicating any official would call 'em this way or that because he was selected by a coach, but we believe the naming of officials is strictly a state board function.

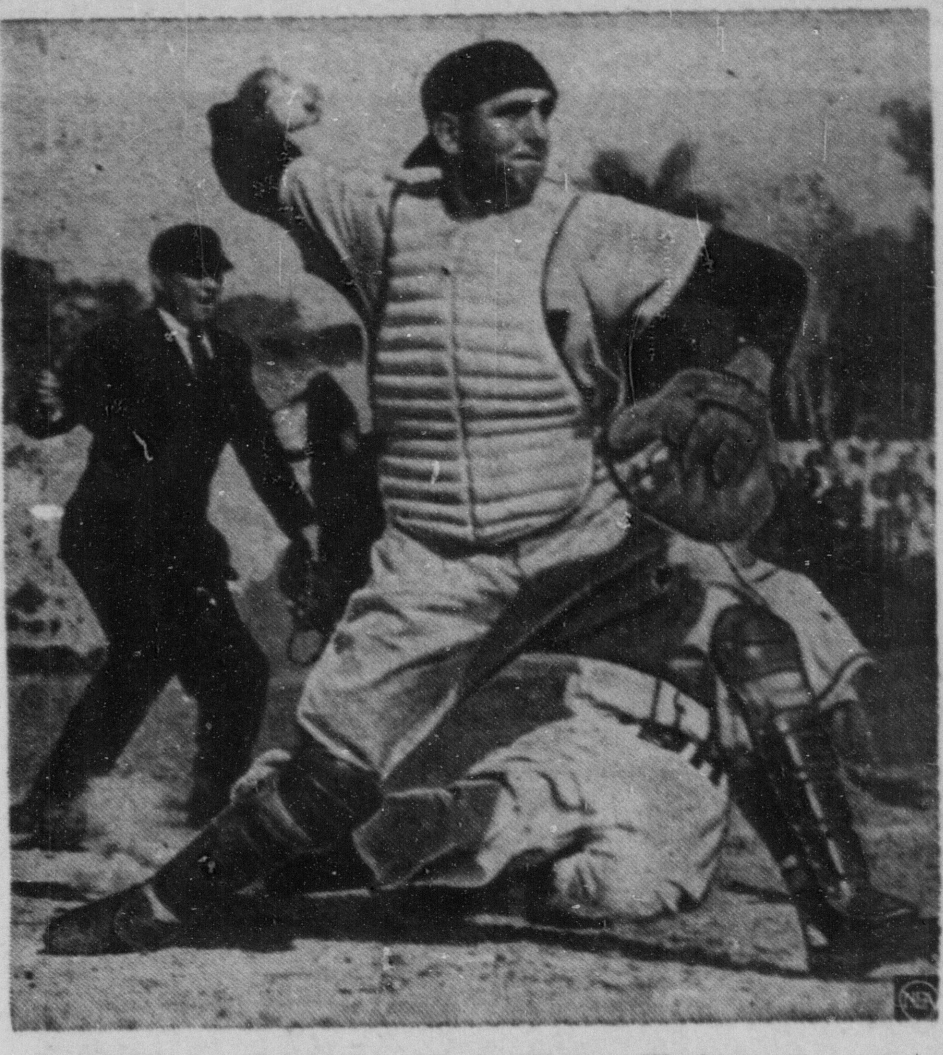

We'd like to see each of the state meet coaches submit the names of five approved officials, with the state board or Commissioner H. W. Emswiler picking the arbiters from that list. Choice for the final game would be left open until the teams are decided, and then the arbiters residing in the most remote parts of the state from either contestant should get the nod.

We'd also like to say that, in 19 state tournaments, we've never seen any "homer" indications on the part of any referee or umpire.

Bob Avila Stars As Indians Win

Giants Beaten, 6-5, By 9th Inning Homer

DENVER (AP) — Whatever Cleveland is paying Bob Avila (say between $15,000 and $20,000), he is beginning to demonstrate he wasn't fooling when he argued over his contract this winter.

Take yesterday's game with the New York Giants: with two out in the sixth inning he tried to steal second. Catcher Wes Westrum's peg had him beaten. So he kicked the ball out of Al Dark's glove, raced to third, then scored on Larry Doby's single.

In the ninth, Avila stepped to the plate with two out and the Indians trailing by a run. On a 3-1 count, he knocked his first homer of the season, scoring Harry Simpson ahead of him and winning the game, 6-5.

THE INDIANS, who play the Giants here tomorrow and Wednesday if the weather permits, also executed a triple play at Los Angeles yesterday, with Luke Easter the key man. It was the first of the Major League season.

Thus the Indians, who can't beat the last place Chicago Cubs, have won five straight from the Giants, champions of the National League.

Easter, who homered a Sal Maglie pitch for Cleveland's first run in the second, looked sharp on the triple play.

Giant runners were on first and second. Then Whitey Lockman lined the ball to Easter. Luke doubled the runner at first then threw to Boone at second for the third out.

Bob Feller started the game, allowing two runs on six hits in five innings. One of the hits was Willie May's homer in the fifth. Bob Chakales took over for him and was the winning pitcher.

OUTFIELDER Dino Restelli was left behind in Los Angeles. Manager Al Lopez frankly told him he didn't think he would use him much and gave him permission to try to land a job with Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League. The Indians bought Restelli from Washington for $10,000 last winter, but have been trying unsuccessfully to peddle him out here.

That leaves the Indians with a squad of 29—12 pitchers, three catchers, seven infielders and seven outfielders. Barney McCosky has singled twice and walked once in four pinch hitting assignments. Lopez says Barney will be the left handed and Birdie Tebbetts will be the right handed pinch hitter.

Lopez expects to alternate Simpson and Bob Kennedy in right field and Jim Fridley and Dale Mitchell in left until the season starts. Mitchell is the only one of the four in a slump—Fridley fanned twice yesterday, then got two singles.

Federal Reserve Board Eases Home Repair Loan Controls

The Federal Reserve Board has made it easier for the nation's home owners to spend more than two billion dollars this year on home repair and modernization work.

Following the decontrol pattern of other government agencies, the Board has substantially relaxed controls on home repair loans. From now on, home owners need not worry about putting down ten per cent in cash for a repair job.

paid off in 36 months' time but elimination of down payments will go a long way toward easing the financing burden for many property owners.

Reserve Board officials say they do not expect their action to stimulate inflation but they admit that removal of the controls will greatly aid the construction industry.

Besides providing more jobs for all kinds of workmen, a pick-up in repair work will help to reduce some of the heavy inventories of building materials in the hands of distributors.

THE NATIONAL Association of Home Builders says the Board's decision will provide "some help to us in our campaign to step up rehabilitation of run-down property."

In another related development, Joseph L. Wood, assistant treasurer of the Johns-Manville Corp., has urged the nation's banks to take a greater interest in home repair loans.

Wood says banks should simplify red tape so that a home owner can go directly to a building contractor and arrange for the work and the loan without further trouble.

The Federal Reserve Board, in relaxing home repair credit controls has raised the possibility that it soon may ease curbs on home buying.

This question was completely side-stepped in the Board's announcement and government officials are maintaining that there is no immediate prospect the agency will go any further in the credit picture.

ONE TOP official says, however, that he believes the matter will be decided "in the next month or two" with the Board at least taking some additional action to ease the situation.

The Federal Housing Administration says some areas of the country have been over-built in the past several years but the over-all demand for new homes is still rising.

For the most part, over-building has centered in rental properties although there have been cases where sales-type FHA guaranteed houses have gone begging without buyers.

Since it takes as long as 18 months to complete an apartment house project, FHA points out that builders sometimes start out with a substantial demand for housing only to wind up with no market.

In such cases, the government moves into the picture and either appoints new managers for the development or takes the project over completely.

THE AGENCY reports that it has taken possession of only 5,000 dwellings out of the 463,000 apartments built under the post-war housing program. FHA also owns 1,200 sales-type houses out of the 666,000 built in the same period.

Apartment house builders apparently are having little difficulty in obtaining materials from the government for their projects.

FHA estimates 433 applications have been received in the past three months for 31,484 apartments to be built all over the nation. During the same three months, officials say 469 applications were processed for 35,868 dwellings.

The higher processing rate reflected applications that were already on file.

While 99 applications were denied covering 10,309 units, the agency says that the lack of ade-

Hints On Refinishing Hardwood Floors

Because the kids are out-of-doors most of the time now, why not do something about the condition of hardwood floors which have taken a beating through the winter?

In most cases, best results are achieved by completely refinishing floors. In cases where the existing finish is floor seal or lacquer, it may only be necessary to touch up worn spots with the same type of finish. If the worn spots are conspicuous because of their size or number, it's better to refinish the entire room.

Before applying a new finish, the floor must be clean. This means not only sweeping it but removing all dirt and wax.

THERE ARE several cleaning agents which are recommended; mineral spirits or naphtha may be purchased at most paint stores. A damp cloth with mild soap can be used.

To remove grease spots, use a laundry soap containing lye but only on the grease area. Clean only a small area at a time and immediately rinse and dry it off. In the case of particularly stubborn areas where the naphtha, mineral spirits or strong soap fail, rub the area with steel wool.

Be sure to follow the manufacturer's instructions. If you use the same type of finish, one coat is usually sufficient. If you plan to change the type of finish it will be necessary to completely remove the old finish from the wood except in one instance: varnish can be applied over shellac.

AFTER THE finish has dried thoroughly, the floor should be waxed with either liquid rubbing-wax or paste type. Self-polishing liquid wax contains water and is therefore not recommended for wood floors because it causes the grain to rise and makes the wood surface rough. Follow the instructions on the container and don't spare the muscle.

In some cases, more than one coating of wax is necessary to give the wood protection from dirt which penetrates the pores. When the floor becomes dirty it is easily cleaned by removing the wax and dirt together and applying a new coating.

Wall Paneling Becoming Increasingly Popular

Wall paneling of sturdy hardwood plywood and handsomely-figured face veneers is coming in to increasingly wider use, in homes and public buildings, restaurants and hotels, offices, stores and various types of commercial structures because it has the look of distinction and offers the additional advantages of economy and permanence.

Architects and designers are specifying more wood-lined walls in residential and other types of construction because modern methods of veneer production have substantially reduced the cost of fine paneling and also because it is inexpensive to maintain.

Time serves to mellow the rich warmth and depth of the natural wood grain, giving greater beauty to hardwood veneers as the years progress.

Add Fertilizer To Make Soil Productive

A productive soil is one that is capable of growing plants. In order to be productive the soil must be well supplied with organic matter and with certain nutrients required to sustain the life of the plants.

Many folks are under the impression that the color of the soil is the determining factor, that the blacker the soil the better it is.

Color has nothing to do with the soil's fertility. A yellow soil, providing it is friable and rich in the essential nutrients, is just as productive as black soil equally rich.

Because these essential nutrients, commonly called chemical elements are constantly being taken out by leaching and by plants, it is necessary that the gardener make up this loss in some way.

THE EASIEST and quickest way is to use a complete commercial fertilizer or plant food. These fertilizers may be purchased in many name brands at most garden supply stores.

The question of "what is a fertilizer" is well answered by Victor H. Ries, author of "The Gardener's Troubleshooter or How to Keep Your Plants Healthy."

Ries writes: "Fertilizer is any material that increases the fertility of the soil, that adds the necessary plant nutrients to the soil. If the material is made up of plant or animal by-products it is called an organic fertilizer. On the other hand if it is made up of chemicals it is called an inorganic fertilizer."

THE FORMULAS of the earlier fertilizers were based on the three essential elements—nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium. Despite regular feeding of the soil with these fertilizers many plants failed to produce satisfactory yields because of the absence of other elements also vitally needed by the plant.

The major and minor elements and their functions in plant growth are:

Nitrogen—An important constituent of plant proteins. Phosphorus — An important plant growth and induces early maturity of plants.

Potassium — Strengthens the stems of plants and regulates fruit production.

Calcium—A component of cell walls which imparts strength to the plant structure.

MAGNESIUM—Imparts green color to plants.

Sodium—Acts in the same capacity as potassium.

Sulphur—A part of all plant proteins. Produces larger root systems.

Iron—Essential for the production of the green pigment of plants. A lack of iron shows up by yellowing of leaves and stems. Manganese—Plants deprived of it make stunted growth and produce no seed. Deficiency symptoms include the gray speck disease.

Iodine — Stimulates plant growth when applied in small quantities.

Zinc—Foliage of plants grown without zinc is smaller and often covered with brown spots.

Copper — Stimulates plant growth, particularly in organic soils.

PROTECT ROOF GUTTERS

Copper roof gutters corrode under chemical action of smoke, soot and cinders. If your house is subjected to railroad or factory smoke it is wise to paint the inside of gutters with asphaltum preparations, using spar varnish on the outside for appearances. Painting prevents copper from staining white woodwork.

Quizzing The Gardener

Q—What is the best method for the propagation of chrysanthemums, and how is it done?—P.C.

A—Chrysanthemums are commonly propagated by cuttings. Follow this method: take pieces 2½ to 3 inches long from the tips of strong shoots. These are placed in a rooting medium of clean builders sand, vermiculite, or a mixture of 2/3 builders sand and 1/3 peat moss. Keep the rooting medium constantly moist—not soggy.

Q—Will you please let me know what to spray on shrubbery for spider mite?—J.O.

A—Red Spider and similar mites can be controlled by spraying with dimite, aramite or vaportone. These should be available at the better garden supply shops.

Q—We are being troubled with little white daisies growing in our front lawn. We can not seem to dig them out. Is there any weed killer we can buy that will take care of these weeds?—W.T.

A—The tiny white daisies in the lawn can be readily killed by spraying them with one of the several 2, 4-D weed killers recommended especially for dandelions. Spray them on the first warm day in spring and again in three or four weeks.

Replace Old Roof Before Leaks Begin

The time to put on a new roof is before the first leak develops in an old roof.

Citing the old adage that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, roofers point out that the cost of repairing cracked walls and ceilings, and of re-painting and re-papering is often greater than the cost of applying a new roof. Periodic inspection by a competent contractor of a roof which has given years of trouble-free service is the best and most economical way to prevent damage.

Spring or early summer, following the battering of winter's winds, snow and ice, and before mid-summer's heavy rains, is a good time to have the roof inspected and, if necessary, to have new roofing applied.

When leaks occur in a localized area—as a result of damage from a fallen tree limb, for example—it may be possible to repair the roof, provided the roofing material isn't old and weatherworn. Generally, however, roofing tends to wear out evenly, and the first leak is an indication that more soon will develop. Consequently, patching an old roof seldom is recommended.

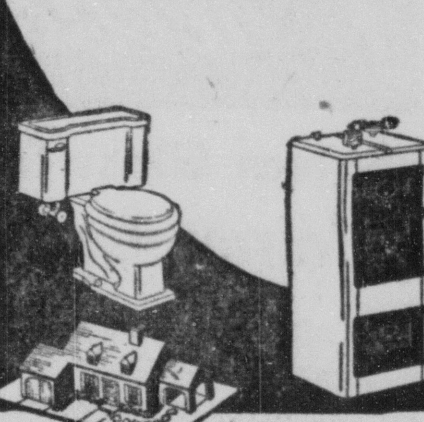

As pointed out by H. R. Snook of the National Bureau of Standards, "there comes a time in the life of a roof on every permanent structure when it is no longer practicable or economical to effect repairs. When that time comes, re-roofing is the only solution."

In re-roofing, it is advisable to select a material which can be applied over the present roof, such as fire-resistant asphalt shingles which now fill about 90 percent of the nation's roofing requirements. This eliminates the inconvenience and muss—as well as the expense—of removing the old roof before applying the new asphalt roof.

Larger Cupboards Most Economic

Three factors enter into the purchase of kitchen cabinets—economy, appearance and utility.

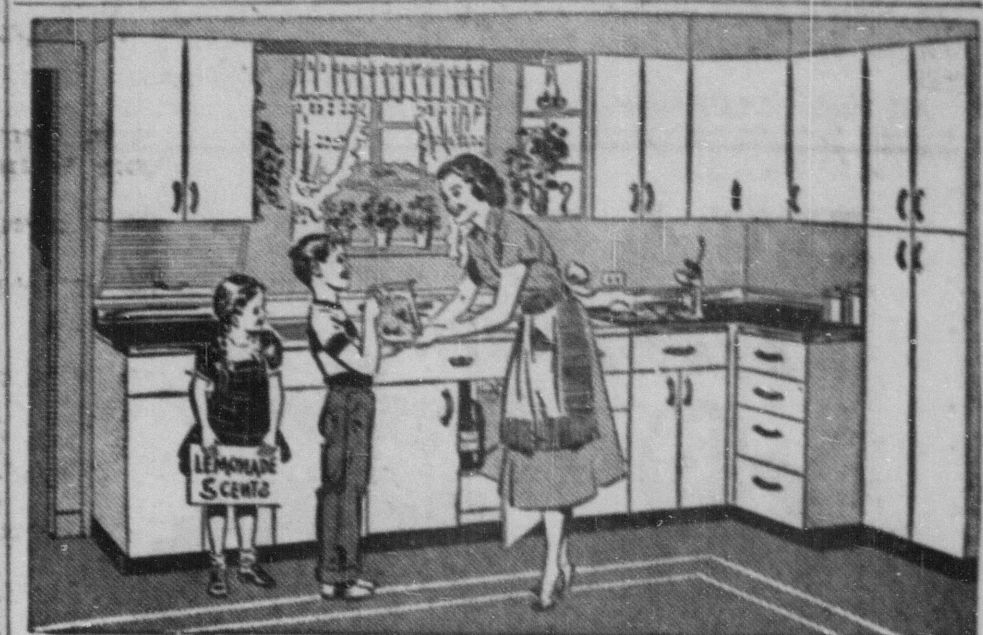

Supposing you want to fill a wall space that measures 72 inches. Since factory-made cabinets usually come in sizes from 15 to 36 inches wide, you could choose from three combinations.

If you chose two 36-inch cabinets to fill that space, one manufacturer's price would be $94. to burn.

Three 24-inch cabinets also would fill the space. They would come to $107. Or you could use two 21-inch and one 30-inch. This would cost $112 from the same manufacturer.

The large cabinets are the most economical, but the use which the housewife wants to make of the storage space may call for several smaller cabinets.

Q—Why do wine bottles have raised bottoms?
A—The raised bottom allows the sediment to settle in such a way that the wine can be decanted without disturbing it. This type of bottle probably originated in France.

Obituary

Mrs. Lillie Hinchliffe

Mrs. Lillie B. Hinchliffe of 204 S. Seneca St., Alliance, seamstress at the Alliance Garment Factory, died at 2:30 a. m. Sunday at the Aultman Hospital in Canton as the result of injuries received in a traffic accident.

Having lived in the Alliance vicinity 25 years, she was born in Washingtonville. She was a member of the Washingtonville Methodist Church, the Moose Auxiliary of Salem, the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary of Alliance, Cootiettes of Alliance and the International Ladies Garment Workers Union Local 522 of Alliance.

Survivors include four sons, Charles of Washingtonville, George of Leetonia, William of Alliance and Harry of Canton; three sisters, Mrs. Loretta Newton of Washingtonville, Mrs. Elva Korn of Lisbon and Mrs. Elsie Stolle of Youngstown; a brother, Wilbur Senior of Washingtonville, and nine grandchildren.

The body will lie in state between 1 and 2 Tuesday at the Washingtonville Methodist Church. Funeral service at 2 p. m. will be in charge of Rev. R. D. Cunningham, church pastor. Burial will be in Leetonia cemetery. Friends may call from 7 to 9 p. m. Monday at the Sharer funeral home in Alliance.

John Diver

John Diver, 77, of Berlin Center, died at 6 p. m. Sunday in Salem City Hospital where he had been a medical patient since March 25.

Wilmer McGaffic

Funeral services for Wilmer J. McGaffic, 78, of Beloit victim of the Westville traffic accident Sunday, are pending the arrival of Dr. Daniel Sanor of Columbus, lone survivor.

Mr. McGaffic was born in Lisbon Dec. 20, 1873, and had lived in this vicinity for the past 50 years. A member of the Westville Christian Church, he was a United States War veteran, having served in Cuba. He belonged to the Crubaugh Camp No. 19.

A retired farmer, he was preceded in death by his wife, Jessie Sanor McGaffic in December, 1951.

Lisbon V.F.W. Women To Install Officers

LISBON — Mrs. Pat McLaughlin will be installed as the new president of the auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4111 during ceremonies at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the post home on W. Lincoln Way.

Mrs. Helen L. Wilson of East Liverpool, Sixth District president, will be in charge of the installation of officers elected March 18.

ROTARY PROGRAM

Dr. L. W. King of Salem will speak on "Views on Present Conditions" at the Rotary meeting Tuesday noon at the Memorial Building. T. E. Smith is program chairman.

A BATTLE HALF WON. Full of pep despite a crippling attack that struck him before he learned how to walk, 18-month-old Robert Dussau demonstrates his mastery over crutches at a hospital at Detroit, Mich. The youngster, a polio victim at the age of 12 months, "flies on one wing" as he takes his first solo steps on crutches after only two weeks of instruction. Doctors hope to effect a full cure of Robert's afflicted leg. Full use has already been restored to one arm, struck at the same time.

Principals Group Of County To Meet

LISBON — The Columbiana County Principals Discussion Group will meet tonight in the Pythians Sisters hall when reports on meetings of the Ohio Education Association and a state health meeting will be given.

Mrs. Norma Nulf of Elkton and Mrs. Dorothy Price of Numbertown 16 School will report on the education meeting, while Harold Morrow of West School and John Pickens of Knox will discuss the health meeting. Both sessions were held at Columbus earlier this month.

Dr. N. E. Nygaard Says He Opposes UMT Action

Dr. Norman E. Nygaard of Lisbon, a candidate for the Republican nomination in the 18th Congressional District, opposed action on UMT by Congress in a speech Friday at the district legislative assembly of Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs in St. Clairsville.

Saying he favored UMT in principle, Nygaard added, "Before we are ready to accept UMT, the power to declare war and to decide when and where American troops will be sent overseas must be restored to Congress."

Wall Street Stock Market Falls From Strike Threat

NEW YORK (INS)—Strength in selected issues braced a faltering stock market today after an initial sell-off touched off by renewed fears of a steel industry shutdown next week.

Prices dropped farther at the opening in the belief that the resignation of Defense Mobilizer Wilson and President Truman's apparent unwillingness to grant the steel companies a price hike to offset the pay rise recommendations of the Wage Stabilization Board, made a strike a virtual certainty.

Bullish forces however ignored the setback in steels and confidently bid prices of their particular favorites to sharply higher levels. Among the stronger performers were American Cyanamid up 2 1/4 points; City Service up 1 1/4; Canadian Pacific up 1 1/4; and Northern Pacific up 3/4.

On the other side of the ledger, weaker issues included Bethlehem Steel off 1 1/4 at its low, Chrysler off 1; U. S. Steel off 1/4; and Anaconda off 3/4.

trailer occurred at 7 a. m. Sunday on Route 224, near the spot where the other accident occurred, and left two injured.

State Highway Patrolmen said that a truck-trailer driven by Stephen Schoen, 42, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was struck in the rear by a car operated by John A. Cavender, 37, of Clinton as Schoen was slowing down for a curve.

Rear of Car Struck
The rear of the Cavender car was then struck by an auto operated by Gilbert R. Forrer, 40, of Akron. It in turn was struck by a car operated by Ed Gluckman, 48, of Cleveland.

Mrs. John Cavender, 47, sustained a possible fractured neck and daughter, Lucinda, 9, suffered a laceration of the right hand. They were brought to the Salem City Hospital where Mrs. Cavender is reported in good condition today. Lucinda was treated and released.

State Highway Patrolmen said that all the vehicles were traveling east at the time of the mishap. A dense fog which enveloped that area contributed to the causes of the accident, they said.

Mrs. Mabel Johnson, 39, and Mrs. Harold Barnes, 22, both of Cleveland were injured at about 10:20 p. m. Saturday when their car overturned on Route 14, a half-mile east of Salem.

They were admitted to Salem City Hospital for treatment of multiple bruises and abrasions. Both are reported in good condition today.

Carrier Planes Hit Red Railroad Lines

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Task Force 77 pilots showed their muscle to Navy Secretary Dan Kimball Sunday and worked over Communist railroad lines in northeast Korea.

U. S. Marine and Navy fliers reported 167 rail cuts, two bridges destroyed and numerous rail cars and supply trucks knocked out.

As the fliers roared into action, surface ships pounded Red targets along the coast.

Kimball followed the attack from the Carrier Valley Forge. Far East Air Force planes Sunday mounted 945 sorties, including night attacks that blasted 64 Communist supply trucks trying to move to the front under cover of darkness.

Twenty-five U. S. Sabre Jets clashed Sunday with 70 Communist MIG-15 jets in a brief battle over northwest Korea and damaged two Red fighters.

Rocks Break Windows

Chester Gow of 1063 Franklin Ave. reported to police that upon being awakened at 2 a. m. Sunday by the sound of breaking glass, he went downstairs and discovered that someone had thrown two rocks through two front windows of his home.

He estimated the damage at $40.

ANSWER SCARE FIRE

Firemen were called to the rear of the old City Hall on E. State St. at 3:37 p. m. Saturday where escaping steam from the radiator of a car owned by Donald Baxter of S. Broadway caused a fire scare.
